

The pocket guide to TRANS! people, places, and things outline

by Matthew Temple

transsexual who thinks it's all about her, thinks if people are talking, they're talking about her, her issues are the only issues, etc.

"@papierhache: do people really think I am that influential"

"@cerelaguiriba: Just because you fucked a girl doesn't mean you're lesbian or bisexual. You actually have to feel something for women."

"@papierhache: east tennessee is an interesting place"

"@papierhache: We have a mural of Dale Fucking Earnhardt painted downtown"

"@papierhache: I'm not a trans advocate because I want to be angry all the time, I'm a trans advocate because I decided that I have the right to be happy."

"@sophiaphotos: If a trans person chooses to be stealth respect that and don't ask questions"

"@fakerapper: "If your date is transgender, he or she will probably reveal so on the second or third date...." o.m.g." someone reading a pocket manual on dating a transgender..he finds it in a corner of the web or in a bookstore and thinks this will be the perfect way to help get to know the transgender he is stalking..and they end up together, ultimately, in a meaningful relationship

"@papierhache: how to not get another date with someone: be creepily fixated on their genital configuration on the first, or any goddamn date"

"@papierhache: how are there people that exist that do not grasp how creepy that is"

"@AidanJPadron: It's not gay if it's with Batman, right?"

yeah, but what IS your genital configuration? ..could be the end of a section, or the book, a reveal to the character that the reader never gets to see..like she lifts her skirt and..and the main character is filled with the strangest (inextricable) joy..cut to black open and close the book with genital configuration..open with a discussion from the trans of how she's not going to tell you her genital configuration..maybe start the book with a quote of dialogue

"@papierhache: ..i would love to hear what in particular about me being a woman inconveniences you" or the mark/Sarah relationship..who cares if he's trans if he's still got a pussy..basically putting up with a partner's transness because you love them and it doesn't make any difference..she still gets her period and has pms emotions..the cis man's laughing monologue as such, about how he doesn't give a shit about his partner's transness, confided in a friend a whole chapter that is the cheesy misinformed stereotypical handbook on how to deal with a trans

"@alliecath921: straight women who casually use "girlfriend" to refer to their platonic lady friends, no offense but you make the world really confusing"

"@papierhache: Hint: if you are overly fixated on others' identities/genitalia, you might be the one with the problem."

"@4speech: .@papierhache Yes!

#Shakespeare nailed it, clearly indicating those who "doth protest too much" have something to hide." but our character thinks your date doesn't even need to know your identity/genitals

a trans suicide

the male character says he sometimes imagines he has a vagina "you might be trans" says he imagines himself as female celebrities aren't we all just pretending to be male or female anyway?
she refers to men as "bros" and "dudebros" and disdains them she suggests to him that he might be trans for identifying somewhat as female then later gets mad at him for re appropriating the term she wishes her favorite star would come out of the closet as gay (so s/he could be a possibility for her) but the star is straight, s/he's just straight dream of sucking the dry, wilted penis of your sister in law..getting your wife and her sister in bed and dreaming of fucking them both but they take off their dresses and the sister has a tiny, dry, wilted penis and you suck it, trying to bring it back to life
"@papierhache: Oh god damn it

"biologically a boy"" "@lisaquestions: @papierhache @eastsidekate That sentence should be banned forever.
Damned cis people and their chromosome obsessions."

hating PIV sex and thinking it's the worst and most boring thing in the world..thinking people who enjoy PIV sex are crazy

#BanDudebros2014

(Soren) "it's true, my bf is very gay" (actually, no, he is straight and you have a vagina..he doesn't care that you're trans)

trans woman peeing standing up in the women's bathroom, sprinkling all over the seat

"@itsrealH: I'm not a trickin' tranny who lied to my husband"

the idea that it is impossible to ever know what it's like to be the opposite sex, not completely through hormones, not completely through surgery..idk incorporate that somehow

she hates cis people

"@corpsehands: a small girl child did some hardcore staring at me in target today, like unabashed, turning all the way around to continue staring".

"@corpsehands: i think it was my hair maybe? or maybe small children can detect the presence of non-cis people & she was super into that".

"@corpsehands: small children can detect the presence of both ghosts and non-binary people". maybe it's true but it's the idea that it's all about you, that your gender is telegraphed and the subject of conversation for everyone

"@corpsehands: honestly i feel bad abt being a Male Writer cause everyone's so tired of those. i'm tired of those. but i..... i am one" "@corpsehands:

WHITE MALE WRITER ugh the worst i'm the worst thing to happen to writing ever".

"@corpsehands: it's not true i am amazing i am a special flower(?)"

"@AtlasSmugged: "Gender reality" aka

"what us cis people decide you are""

"@thisispaulie: yo, het porn's kinda scary, i forgot just how scary it is" it's actually anti-het instead of just being pro-queer

"@papierhache: whenever i see someone refer to someone as "a transgender" i imagine they were sucked into a black hole before saying "person""

"@aedison: I'm so grateful that the show I'm currently auditioning for is seeking transwomen to play a transwoman. Such a low bar, seldom cleared.". is an actor an actor, whose job is to understand and play others, or do trans women need to be played by trans women?

"@corpsehands: so in my dreams i'm telling boys that hit on me "i'm a trans boy and if you're hitting on me you're gay" l m a o o o o"

"@corpsehands: i think i'm attracted to people that are not the sort of people i should be attracted (really femme cis gay guys?)" . "@corpsehands: i have a hard time thinking someone cis would be into me & then if they were would they just be fetishizing me being trans cause ew gross"

"@corpsehands: but like you don't even wanna go there i'm trans on top of being really fucked up from sexual abuse You Do Not Want To Go There" in the end the cis dude doesn't care what her (the trans') genital configuration is..he just loves her gay people, trans people want it to be a big deal that they're gay or trans..but some of us don't care, we're past it..present that point of view, of someone for whom transsexuality is simply no big deal..like the trans girl is trying to convince this person that it's special, that it's controversial, and this person is like so what watch this video for my past ideas on TRANS!: <http://vimeo.com/74155758>

"Hi." "Hi." "Do you have a vagina?"

"@papierhache: Weird as hell seeing one of your tweets on the Today Show website". she gets off on it but pretends to hate it..but she loves the feeling of importance..complains to her friends that she's being used by them, that she's just a token TRANS! opinion..but she's an egomaniac so she loves the attention..weird push-pull thing

"@papierhache: I dont understand satire"

"@papierhache: I also like the idea of being too touchy when there are numerous internet strangers who have gone out of their way to personally distress me"

"@papierhache: "Trans activists" get offended a lot because our society deliberately attacks trans people and our identities a lot..Imagine that"

"@papierhache: One cool thing about being bi for me was about how often i was made to doubt it or felt i had to choose rather than accept my complexity"

"@papierhache: Same with the old prescriptivist ways of being trans, it confused me about who i was for literally years rather than learning to just do me"

"@papierhache: count me as one of the "elitists" that says that RuPaul isn't trans. Cause he isn't trans."

"@papierhache: There can be and have been and are trans drag queens. RuPaul is not one of them." "@trashbonne: @papierhache this is why I'm on the fence about it; it is a horrible subculture overall, but it's probably helped people in some way?"

"@andressa_ian: im seriously eyerolling at cis gay men interrupting trans women to bring up completely unrelated points". "@andressa_ian: yes, we MUST legally protect queers, no one is saying otherwise, but WHY would you bring this up NOW".

"@andressa_ian: if your cat was hit by a car, i would not talk about how spaying and neutering animals is a good idea.

does that make sense to you?"

"@andressa_ian: that says "your feelings make me uncomfortable and i dont want to talk about this so stop". you are an asshole."

a story about a dirty cop isn't a statement that all cops are dirty..it's a story about a dirty cop. it is saying there exists one dirty cop, or at most there exist some dirty cops. but, in this story, as with a dirty cop story, include reasonable trans people as contrast.

"@papierhache: i honestly had to google brett easton ellis". "@papierhache: @dadflannels i didn't know who andrea james was talking about, i hadnt ever heard of the guy". "@papierhache: oh so you are a grown ass man who refers to people as "generation wuss". remind me why i shoud respect your opinion again mr. ellis". "@PinkRaige: @papierhache haha he's an ass but was a good writer with the emphasis being on "was".

"@_LaScapigliata: @papierhache maybe he has a point I don't know <http://t.co/RGswuhIpKd>". "@TheNewYurovsky: @papierhache the constant moaning...unbearable."

"male" child with ambiguous genitalia who is shamed by his father for playing with dolls..a gay person observing this identifies the father as potentially gay gay woman sleeping with men a little..show that it's not black and white..you might not know you're gay at an early age or might not have comfortably embraced that, so you're just sleeping with the gender you're supposed to be sleeping with (inspired by remarks from Ellen Page, though I'm not sure they were true..she may have gender switched the pronouns for protection before she came out) stories of people turning gay—even though that goes against the common thinking—people do claim that this has happened to them via a gay mentor or experience..I want to represent this occurrence or seeming occurrence..even if underlying they were always "really" gay make it about TRANS! but deliberately interleave a thread about gayness, even though this will infuriate some TRANS! people

"@papierhache: my boyfriend, best boyfriend". (so immature)

"@papierhache: Im a cool <http://t.co/cllCCj9euR>"

"i feel like there's so much dismissiveness toward cafab {coercively assigned female at birth} ppl in the trans community and it sucks..like their gender identities stem solely from internalized misogyny and they're just "playing pretend" or "trying to be different"..anyway, gender prescriptivism in the trans community is fucking stupid and hurtful and kind of what being trans is...not about at all???..i feel like no one takes non-binary cafab people and trans men seriously at all and it??? sucks a lot???..but i feel like i have so much privilege being a trans dude that i don't have any place to talk about these issues/i'm overreacting" %you're still trans tho, i keep seeing this whole "trans men have male privilege!!" but it's only on the condition that you ~pass% "right? i am a trans dude who will probably NEVER EVER ~pass~ bc i am not interested in medically transitioning..a lot of people will still read me as female in public and treat me accordingly--i have no male privilege whatsoever..and while trans men probably face far less public danger than trans women too, "corrective" rape and workplace/social stigmas..are still present and big threats to trans men and non-binary cafab people as well"

"Ugh. Does no one see the "being transmasculine stems from misogyny" as the other side of the transwomen are men TERF coin? It is"

"just bringing up the word "trans" invokes a lot of really violent reactions."
"i have seen explicit misogyny from a trans man ONCE. he said he hated women and wanted nothing to do with him. fuck that guy" "on the whole.....trans men are like. conscious of themselves. a lot of trans men recognize their privilege even when it's not warranted..like if you dont pass, how can you claim to have male privilege? it doesnt work that way, it CANT" this is obvious, but: make it a powerful message of acceptance!
"@a_girl_irl: it's weird that gay people can make straight kids gay but that straight people despite having a huge majority can't make gay kids straight" hache..I suggest one bathroom for everyone but she hates the idea because she wants to use the girls' bathroom..there's some meaning there..a specialness that she has fought to be part of and she doesn't want to see it go away}

"@andressa_ian: cis boys' peepees are always like 'hey yo im ready to go' and thats really admirable, i love that can-do attitude"

"@andressa_ian: all these trans girls telling their peepees who's boss. you tell your peepees that you run this show right here"

"@papierhache: I didn't transition to settle on being defined on society's terms. Society's flawed interpretations of my identity don't apply #stoptheslurs". (she thinks about what other people think a whole damn lot) she considers a discussion led by anyone else to be a "derail"..she wants to say what she has to say, not learn from discussions with others or consider others' opinions ideas experiences and perspectives..she is trans-centric and self-centric..anything else does not apply

"@papierhache: Being a "tr*nny" is seen as being incompatible with individuality / personhood in our society. That slur erases who we are.

#stoptheslurs". "@papierhache: Slurs that make transgender identities shameful forcefully closet us, keeping our lives hidden, misrepresented, misunderstood. #stoptheslurs".

"@papierhache: Transphobic slurs erase our narratives by imposing a false, caricatured narrative upon us, preventing us from being understood #stoptheslurs". "@MariTheTNF: Slurs like "tranny" reinforces offensive, entrenched stereotypes of trans identities, reducing us to talk-show caricatures. #stoptheslurs".

"@papierhache: How often do you hear transgender people defining themselves in mass media? How often do you hear tr*nny jokes in mass media?

#stoptheslurs". "@MariTheTNF: Trans slurs are especially cruel b/c we're such a tiny, silenced minority. Our voice has limited reach to combat stereotypes.

#stoptheslurs". "@Fengxii: Being black, I know there's a lot of pain and anxiety that comes from slurs, so when ppl say a word is unacceptable you need to heed it". "@Fengxii: Treat people with respect, and that means respecting their boundaries and concerns that may not always match yours". "@Dendrodoa: If

"It's just a word" then why do you insist on using it when you know it's hurting people? What're you gaining?

#stoptheslurs". "@rokkushii: The person hurling slurs and shouting about FEMINAZI SJWS and OUTRAGE CULTURE is usually the angriest person in the room #stoptheslurs".

"@papierhache: Does whatever you get out of using transphobic slurs really outweigh the harm that they do to people? Is it really worth it?

#stoptheslurs". but who says "tranny"? lowlifes, that's it (says a character with an alternate point of view)

"@SeeBeeWhitman: @papierhache #FuckThatDouchebag". "@papierhache: How miserable of an existence do you have to have to publicly tweet about how much you enjoy being a jerk to marginalized people"

"@papierhache: Still cant believe there are ppl out there who say "penis is male" as a mantra to ward off trans vampires".

"@papierhache: I cant read "penis is male" without chortling"

"@papierhache: Its almost like not focusing on one thing at a certain point in time doesn't necessarily mean we dont care about that particular thing".

"@papierhache: But no, that reality would get in the way of the "who is the best activist" rat race..Sigh".

"@papierhache: it's either a popularity contest or it's not people, pick one and quit playin' games"

"@ParkerMolloy: .@tromano And there are some cisgender people who don't shout trans people's lived experiences down. You are not one of them." I fail to see why trans actors can only play trans roles. That makes as little sense as cis actors only playing cis roles. A trans actor refusing to play the opposite gender is as senseless as a cis actor refusing to play the opposite gender.
Regardless of whether you're cis or trans, if you're really a woman (if you identify as a woman), then it's the same task for each to play a man, with no special burden on the trans actor. In both cases, you're asking a person to play the gender they least identify with.
It's acting. Personally, I think the idea that trans roles need to be played by trans actors is ludicrous. And I don't think that a trans woman being played by a cis man perpetrates the idea that a trans woman is just a cis man in a dress. In no other aspect is an actor's real-life personality taken into account when considering the characters they play. Leonardo di Caprio played a mentally ill Howard Hughes, and I don't know or care whether di Caprio is mentally ill. He researches the role and plays it. Being mentally ill does not necessarily make an actor a better choice to play a mentally ill character.

how basic, how common it is to have your identity wrapped up in your gender and who you like to fuck..as opposed to your ideas!..it's important, but not the most important thing about you..or shouldn't be. But then again, when you are in a minority, other people define you by these things, they make it an issue. Easy for a white person to say there are more important identity issues than race. Still, make your life about the ideas you hold, not these lesser things. I do think there's an element of that here: rebellious rejection of the mainstream. "@Virescence: hey, you're a straight cis person that likes sex things, that's great, doesn't mean you're a part of the lgbtq community, ok" True, but why so angry about it and needing to exclude/include to feel good about yourself? But we all do this, with nationalities, recovery communities, etc.

You know, if this was in New York, it wouldn't even matter. I'm mean in New York we're past all this, it's over, we've moved on to different things.

Have it be essentially a serious story: a trans person killed by transphobes. A trans person we like. And then the aftermath.

"@beardelacreme: I wanna remind u all that gender can be fluid and that's okay and U should never feel guilty about changing pronouns etc"

His fantasy/horror of lifting up some woman's skirt to have set with that glorious pussy and instead there's a horrifying cock!! Satirize the man's relationship with other men's cocks—maybe even his own cock—even as he's afraid of women's genitals. He's squeamish. Truly zoom in and exaggerate his fear of finding male genitals when he undresses a woman..to have already kissed someone he thought was safe, acceptable, no homo.

ally is a goal, it turns out there are ways to achieve that other than actually being an ally..Like insisting on it over and over to a group of other self-proclaimed allies while continuing to ignore minority groups that object" (Zinnia Jones @ZJemptv) (what a horrible person and a horrible thinker!)

"Idk what people mean by having to "process" the fact that someone they like committed rape. It's a thing that happened, it's not complicated..Maybe I just see less of a need to impose a grid of oversimplified narrative onto the messy complexities of a person's life?..Like there's no actual conflict in reality between someone producing work that's admired by many while also raping someone..I mean if you know enough about me I'm sure you're aware that I'm kind of a fuckup in some areas (that don't involve committing crimes)..I dunno I tend to assume if I'm a fan of someone then it's entirely likely I'll find out something really fucked up about them eventually..Some ways I negotiate this are: 1) recognizing inspirational value of their work, 1a) but not drawing inspiration from the rapes they commit” (Zinnia Jones @ZJemptv)

"@Hislittlelamb03: Please don't be offended if you send me a dick pic and I ask where the rest of it is... Am I right with @StaceyCP784" (from a woman)

"@SailorTrapGawd: Boys love talking shit to girls but be emotional as fuck when we say something back. LMAO."

"@moscaddie: psa to heterosexual teen girls: u don't actually have to watch ur boyfriend do activities that bore u or even stay w ur boring boyfriend". This has nothing to do with the sex of you or your partner..it's not an issue about heterosexual boys or men, it's a more universal idea/truth which has been tooled up as a slur against heterosexual males.

"@moscaddie: dick is abundant & low value but dry dick dudes, multi million dollar industries & our entire gender system depend on u not believing this". Aren't dick and pussy approximately equal in abundance? Is it necessary for women to hate on guys and dicks? How does it feel when I tell you pussy is abundant and low value? Isn't that equally as true as the same statement about dick? "@moscaddie: hey dudes consider that when u hit on a girl it might be the 45th time for her that day & that's why her eyes look dead inside luv u". "@moscaddie: women are socialised to be v agreeable to men which means they have no idea how boring we find most of them". I agree with this, but it goes the other way, too: men will put up with hours of listening to a woman talk on subjects that bore him, just to get laid or maintain the relationship. Women may get hit on "45 times a day" but men, once in conversation with a woman, will do the same thing as women watching their BFs play video games..they'll listen and pretend they're nice and caring while a woman goes on and on about a topic that does not interest him. He'll endure hours worth of shopping on his days off because that's what the woman wants to do. This goes both ways.

"@moscaddie: resist the idea that u should be a chill low-maintenance girlfriend, there's nothing in it for u". I would never be attracted to a girl who acted that way, but that's just me. And this statement is helpful to everyone when you replace "girlfriend" with "boyfriend".

"@sailorsonya: (spooky feminist) ME. <http://t.co/T05gstp7S6> (girls with asses like mine do not talk to boys with faces like yours)"

"@hutchingsahn: CHEAP AND PLENTIFUL @moscaddie <http://t.co/IXGzuxkJ7i>". Even if men's sperm is plentiful, that doesn't make it cheap..one man's sperm may be more valuable than another man's. And I think some women are taking this statement to mean that the men who supply this sperm are cheap and plentiful..and I would certainly argue that men are no more cheap or plentiful than women. When "feminism" becomes attacks on men, it has lost its course.

"@DiamondGirl127: Guys, wish we could sympathize by reassuring you that our boobs shrink in the cold but they don't. Sorry about your little problem"

"@clownfysh: @GOODNESSaidan done. With wishes that you encounter kinder and more socialized men than you may have in the past." The problem is never that simple, though..would she ban trans men from tweeting at women? Might trans men have experiences that would lead them to treat her better than cis men? You know? Her complaint is generic and doesn't get at a specific issue. Also, on Twitter you never know if who you're talking to is who/what they say they are! I'm of course sympathetic to the possibility that women are harassed more than men. I'm sympathetic for any abuse she may have undergone. But ultimately I unfollowed her not because it will increase the chances I won't contact her—I unfollowed her because her original suggestion could only come from a simpleton or a reactionary, and that's not the kind of person I want to be in contact with on Twitter.

“Arabelle Sicardi @arabellesicardi please fav / rt this tweet if you have ever gotten death threats for something you've written, what was it? (not 4 cis men to reply to thx)” It's unfortunate that cis men have dominated such conversations by discounting them, that it makes it that a woman doesn't want to hear from cis men who have been hurt.
